

Make Your Own Extraordinary MUSTACHE!

In a crowd full of black mustaches, what makes your mustache extraordinary? Create your own unique mustache by coloring the mustache below. Once it looks perfect, carefully cut along the dotted outline. When you're done, add glue to the top portion of your Popsicle stick and attach it to the back of your cut-out mustache. Now you have your very own extraordinary mustache!

MATERIALS:

- Markers
- Crayons
- Colored Pencils
- Scissors
- Popsicle Stick
- Glue

Visit RHCBTeachersLibrarians.com,
your online destination for all the resources
you need for your classroom or library!

Follow Us on Social
@RHCBTeachersLibrarians

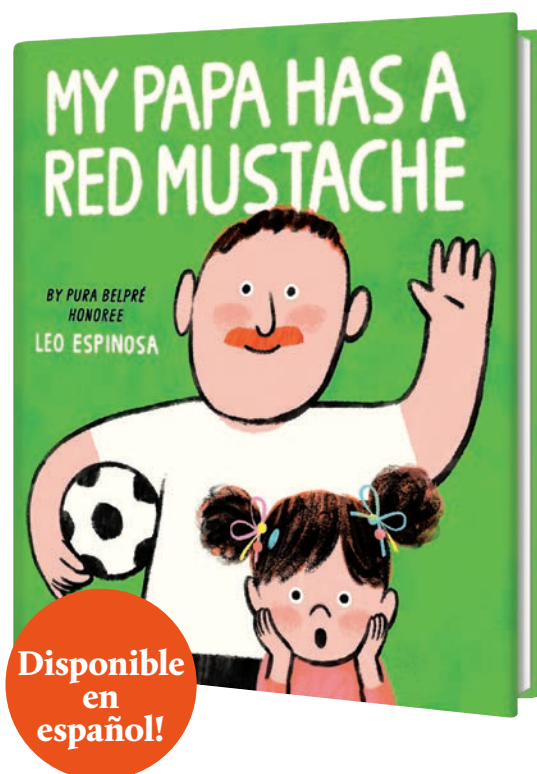

About the Book

Papa is a fearless pillow fighter, a pancake ninja, and a pigtail artist—at least that's what his daughter thinks. There's just one problem. Papa has a red mustache. While every other man has a black mustache, Papa is the only man with a red one. It's embarrassing!

But when Papa takes his daughter to watch her first soccer game, she is too excited to realize that the two have become separated. Where is her papa with the red mustache? In a victorious and goal-worthy finale that will have readers laughing and cheering, she realizes that her papa's red mustache makes him shine the brightest.

Author Bio

New York Times bestselling illustrator and designer Leo Espinosa was born in Bogota, Colombia, and now lives in Salt Lake City, Utah, with his family. His picture books include The Creature of Habit and The Creature of Habit Tries His Best by Jennifer E. Smith; No More Naps and NO Is All I Know! by Chris Grabenstein; Islandborn by Junot Diaz, for which he was awarded a Pura Belpré Illustrator Award; and The New York Times bestseller The World Belonged to Us by Jacqueline Woodson. In addition, he has given multiple lectures and workshops at schools and institutions such as Parsons School of Design and Pratt Institute while also serving on the faculty of the Rhode Island School of Design.

More Books Illustrated by LEO ESPINOSA

More Picture Books About How Unique We All Are!

Visit RHCBSchoolLibrarians.com,
your online destination for all the resources
you need for your classroom or library!

Follow Us on Social
@RHCBSchoolLibrarians